
Research and projects

The Institute of Public Health and Medical Law scientific and research activities in the field of public health. Scientific research activities are carried out in collaboration with both national academic and international institutions. The Institute systematically deals with the issue of migration in relation to health and health care and participates in empirical investigations and information and education projects in this field.